Pompano Beach, Florida
Enrollment: 2,300

Volume 38

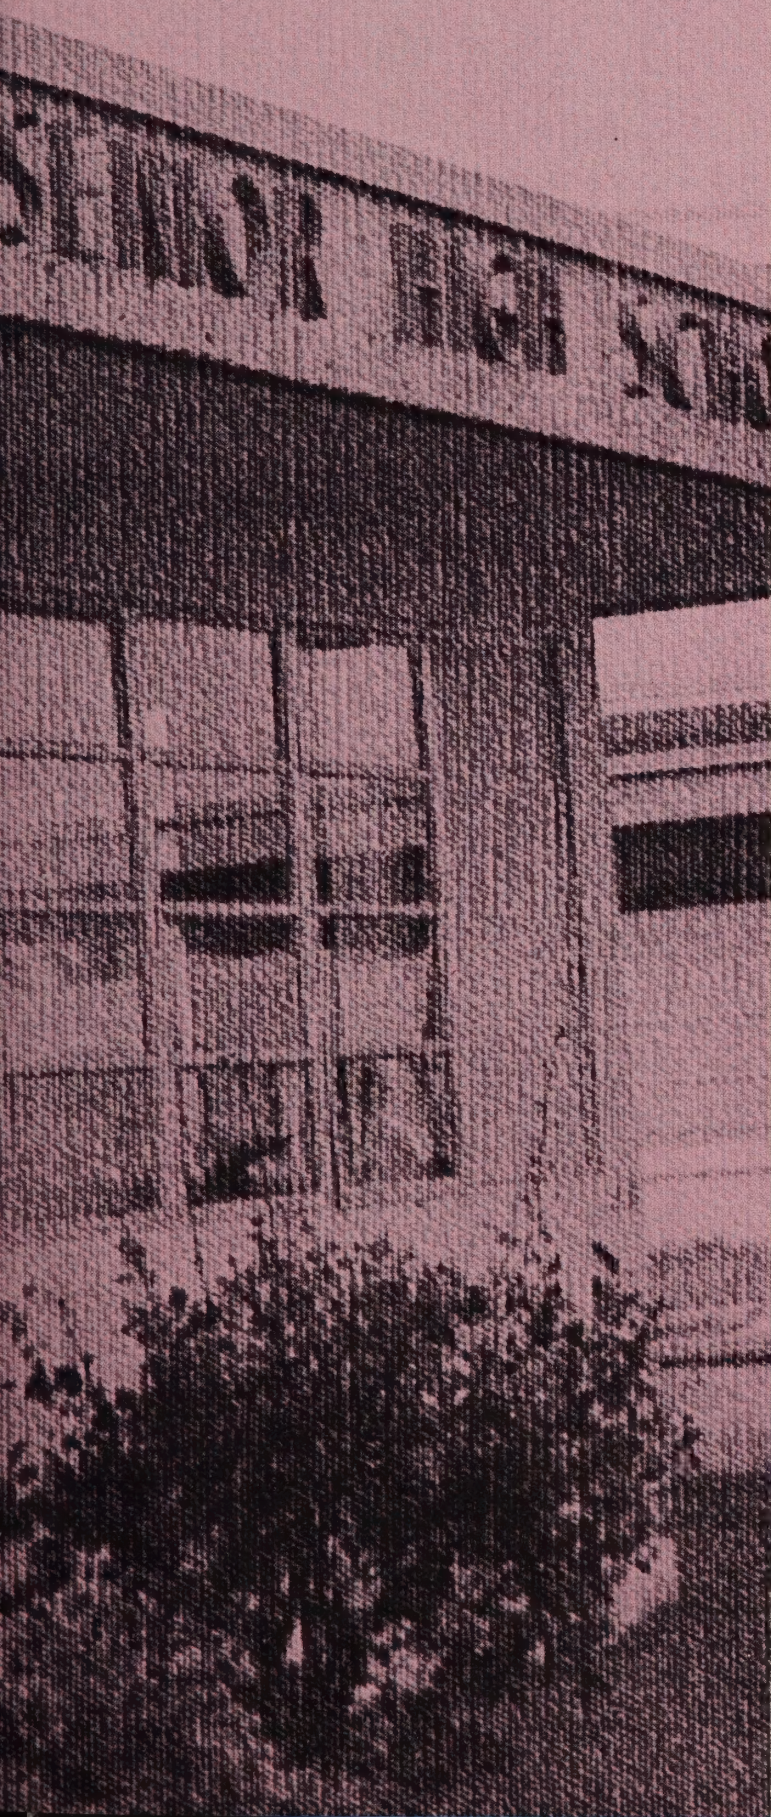

Pompano Beach Senior High School began in 1897 as a one room, one teacher school. From 1910 to 1916 the school consisted of two rooms on the corner of North East First Street and Second Avenue. The first building was built in 1916 on North East Fourth Street and consisted of five rooms. At the time nearly fifty students attended. In 1926 the auditorium and the north building were built where the junior high stands today. The gymnasium and other facilities were built later, most of them after 1945.

In 1950 students in all twelve grades came from south of Deerfield to the north boundary of Oakland Park to this school. At this time there were 84 students in senior high, grades ten through twelve.

In 1960 the new school was built at its present location and the junior high students were moved into the old high school. The library and social studies building were then added in 1972.

Presently our enrollment is 2300 strong. This may seem to be a lot of students, but our campus is wide and everyone has learned to get along together.

The first decade of our lives was spent in imitation of those surrounding us. We began with our first words, copying those of our parents, until we could talk. We all had our heroes whom we would mimic; our opinions were based on what our parents thought or what our friends felt.

The important thing about going to school was to be "in", whether it meant wearing pennies in our loafers or having a yo-yo in our possession. We all had to follow the fads. We have gone from clackers and kazoos to fairy loops and clogs. When girls stopped wearing ankle socks, the guys gave up their crewcuts, because those things were "out".

Before we could achieve our individuality, we had to feel accepted by conforming with others. By learning to be ourselves, we became imaginative people with our own opinions, feelings, and ideas.

Our parents had assumed the role of molding us into responsible people. Throughout our lives, they had given us answers, formed judgments, and expressed their opinions for us. Most of us followed their exact thinking until we grew into young adults with our own personalities.

The biggest influence on maturity has been our own peer pressure, following each other through each new phase of our adolescence.

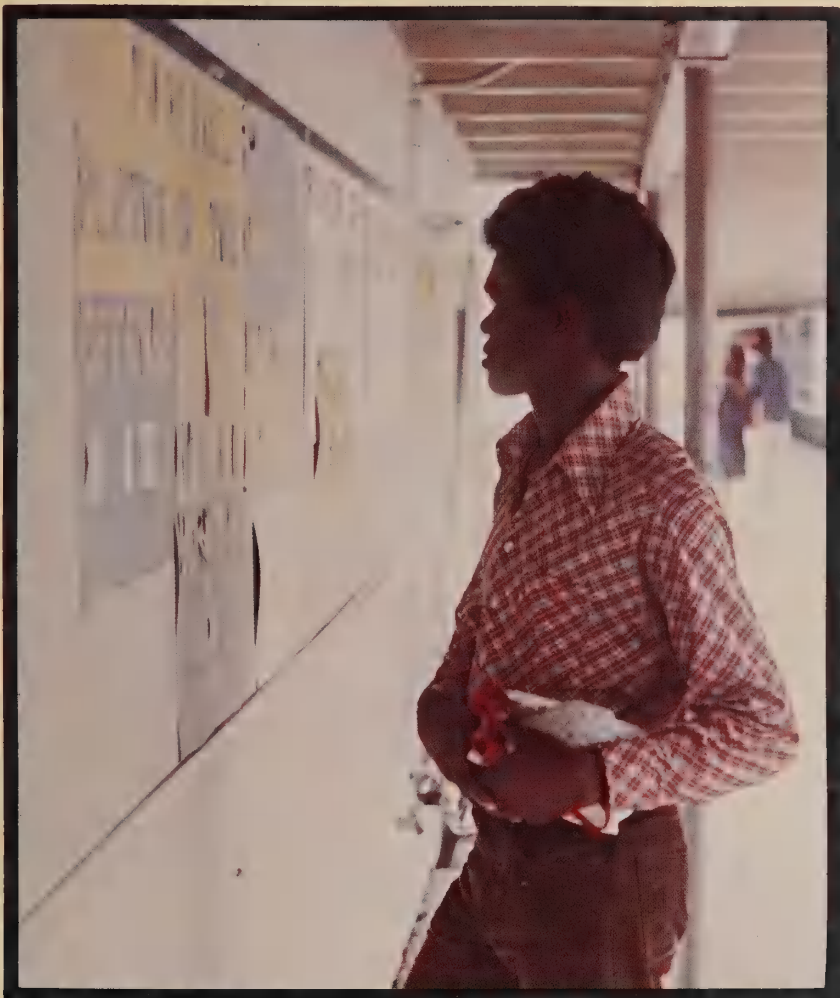

We are now in the stage of life which calls for education. Not only must we learn as we are in school, but also as we live in the world around us. Because we are now individuals, we each need to expand into different areas and to learn things that will be relevant to our lives.

Learning can be monotonous, depending on the subject and the interests of the students.

It has been said we must learn by our mistakes. Hopefully, we will not make the same mistakes twice, because we have learned from our first ones. We have to learn to accept life, with its triumphs and defeats.

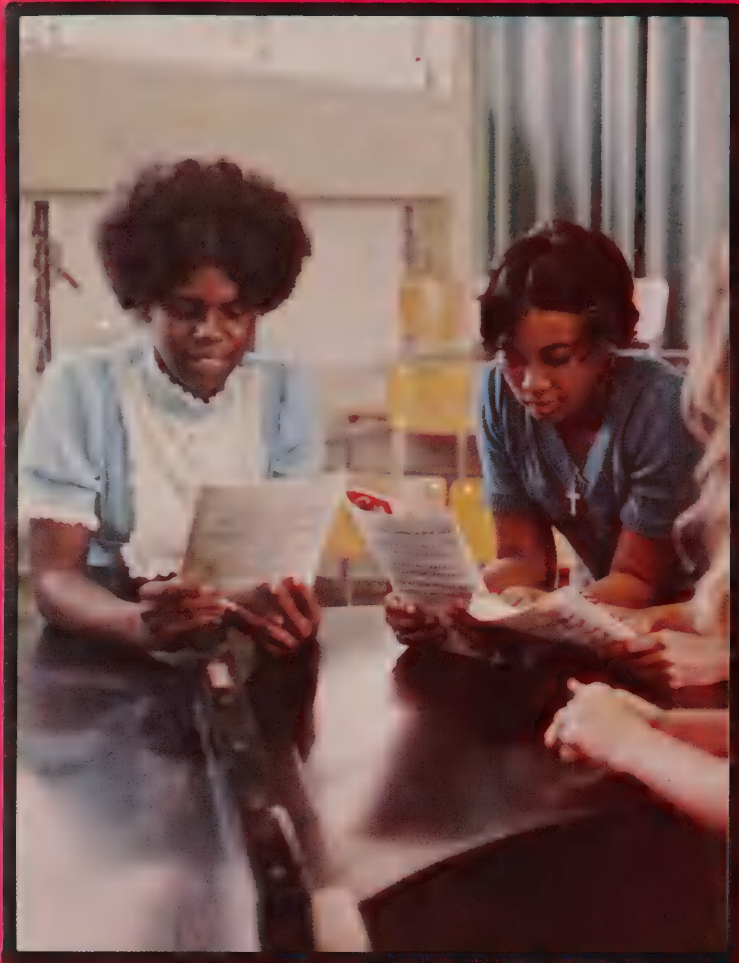

Does our high school education really prepare us for our future? In the past few years, our educators have realized that every student's learning experience is the most beneficial to them. We are learning things that our parents had never heard of as students, such as computer science, which now plays an important role in our lives. Our science and mathematics courses today are much more advanced than the courses that were taught to our parents.

More than ever before, many students have part-time jobs, a source of money and a guide to responsibility. We are becoming more aware of the events that surround and direct our lives, both locally and worldwide.

The problems facing us today seem to be conditioning us for the future. An awareness of money and an appreciation of property are both visible today. Of course, the learning process never ends. We must continue our education as much as possible, because the most knowledgeable will be the most successful.

STUDENT LIFE

Leaders In Action

While few people have shown a real interest in government in the past few years, those students who took part in Boy's and Girl's State, found out what is needed to improve our system. Attending Boy's State were: Emery Cook, Herb Larsen, Greg Shear, Kenny Martin, Tommy Hunter, Vice Olshove, and Curt Alstadt. Charlene Edwards attended Girl's State. The runners up were Sue Cox and Diane Liesenfelt. The students ran for different offices, such as senators, mayors, and county commissioners. They were given a guided tour of the Florida capitol. The experience was memorable for all, but most of all educational for our leaders of tomorrow.

Fiery Blaze Ignites Spirit

Weeks before Homecoming, students began their ritual of gathering sticks, boards, poles, and planks for the annual bonfire. Every weekend, they searched for wood, and eventually the pile reached far into the sky, waiting to be ignited.

Long hours were devoted to nailing down the wooden structure. As Homecoming drew near, the students kept a watchful eye on the bonfire, protecting it from rival "torch-bearers".

On the eve of Homecoming day, hundreds were present to witness the burning blaze, but rainclouds and strong winds postponed it until a few hours before the game. The spirit lingered on, and everyone returned to watch the lighted bonfire. As the structure burned, the brightness and heat were felt by all who were present, and made the hard work and long preparation seem worthwhile. The bonfire was unpredictable, but most of all, unforgettable.

Queen Crowned In Darkness

One of the highlights of homecoming came at the half-time of the football game as the queen was crowned. As the lights were turned out and darkness crept over the stadium, the excitement reached its peak. The five finalists waited breathlessly for the verdict, and the hush of the crowd added to the suspense. As the lights came on, Charlene Edwards, escorted by Emery Cook, was crowned, and applause finally broke the silence. As her court surrounded her, the joyful tears poured down her face.

Her court consisted of the four other finalists—Terri Bell, escorted by Mark Heuser; Debbie Petracca, escorted by Kenny Martin; Teresa Smith, escorted by Tom Whitworth; and Nancy Cochran, escorted by Don Lloyd.

Also in the court were Mr. and Mrs. Blue & Gold—Vickie Harris and Paul Speights. The Class Attendants—Senior, Lucretia Harris, Junior, Renee Williams, Sophomore, Lori Doyle, and Freshman, Michele Stegura; added to her court. Audrey Rolle, as Miss Pompano Beach High School, completed it.

Pitter-Patter Plagues Parade

With enthusiasm and abounding interest, the students spent many hours in preparation for the homecoming parade. Thousands of paper flowers were made to decorate the cars and floats for the annual event which encircled the city. The spirit for competition rose to great heights as the clubs and classes got ready for the big day.

As the cars and floats arrived at Kester Park for the beginning of the route, so did the rain. The spirit was never dampened, and the parade began with the band leading the way. Hundreds of people observed the procession with pleasure as it circled the city and ended at the school.

The cleverness and ingenuity observed in all of the entries made the parade a total success, and as the cars and floats drove around the track before the game, it became more evident.

Don't Drink The Water

A cascade of comedy came from one of our funniest comedians. This affair took place inside an American embassy behind the Iron Curtain. An American tourist, caterer by trade, and his family of wife and daughter, rushed into the embassy two steps ahead of the police, who suspected them of spying and taking pictures. But it was not much of a refuge, for the ambassador was absent and his son, now in charge, had been expelled from a dozen countries. He and the caterer's daughter even had time to fall in love.

Reading from left to right: The cast of "Don't Drink the Water" waits for the performance. Jim Wells, being made-up by member of the make-up crew. Father tries desperately to explain himself. Curt Alstadt, as Father Drobney introduces his magic show. Putting a mustache on Jim Kami, not at all an easy task. Leeta Hardin was among the make-up crew behind the scenes. Father catches the bomb shortly before Axel throws it out the window. Father lets Krojack know just how he feels about him before going back to the United States. No one understands that Father wants just a plain American supper.

Fun and Frolic Fill Up Summer

There comes a time in the year, between June and September, which is generally called summer, a joyful season for all students. Away from School, they invest their time in such leisurely things as swimming, surfing, baseball, and horseback riding. Of course, a lot of students use their summer vacation as a time to make money, but usually there is still plenty of time for fun and frolic. Summer is a time for relaxation of body and mind, because all too soon it is over, and ...

Elephant Steals Show

Several students took pleasure in seeing the top-notch entertainment of Mike Douglas and Robert Goulet in Miami Beach. As genuine crowd-pleasers, the two stars kept their audience spell bound with their antics. Mike Douglas, while aboard an elephant, received thunderous applause for his show. The students who were there left with plenty of enjoyable memories of that sunny afternoon.

Queen Adds to Excitement

As an added Homecoming attraction, the student body voted for Miss PBHS, a honor bestowed upon Audrey Rolle. She reigned over the city-wide pep assembly and was a part of the Queen's court. At the "Tornado Watch" in the gym, she was crowned by Dr. Owen T. Myers.

Students Take Trip in Time

Many students enjoyed a very unique field trip when they visited Viscaya in Miami. On their guided tour of the old home, they took many pictures as part of photography class. They learned that in Viscaya, every room portrayed a different country. It also involved several different periods in time. The students were especially impressed by the beautiful landscaping. All in all, the trip was educational, interesting, and truly unforgettable.

“In The Center Ring . . .”

Almost as commonplace as the Friday night football games, the pep assemblies returned. As the gym filled up, the band began playing, setting the mood for the rally. The cheerleaders began with their chants, coaxing the students to participate. They also invented the skits, including the return of the “little people” and the football players legs contest. There was usually a pep talk by the players and coaches, the band finished with a fight song, accompanied by the drill team.

When basketball season rolled around, a unique assembly was held. Calling themselves a “three-ring circus”,—the basketball team displayed their skills in circles formed by the drill team and the cheerleaders. All the assemblies were exceptionally entertaining, and left the students “pepped” up for the coming seasons.

Dance Is Last— But Not Least

As Homecoming, 1974, was fading into the past, the dance was still going strong. Sponsored by the Junior class, the dance was a total success, with a large number of students attending.

As they "bumped" to the sounds of "Color," the students displayed their talent in the auditorium of the Pompano Beach Recreation Center. The Homecoming Dance was enjoyed by all and will not soon be forgotten.

For Whom The Bells Toll

Students are subjected to approximately 2,172 bells during the school year. This figure does not include homeroom bells. These melodious sounds are supposed to remind the students to go to class, to lunch, to assembly, or to go home. It becomes evident by the number of bodies in the halls after the tardy bell, that the hearing problems of students have reached epidemic proportions.

With only five minutes between each class, several students are late to class every day. It takes a freshman four and a half minutes just to open his locker. It takes him another minute to close it! Seniors need at least three different conversations before they are ready for class. Who ever heard of a five minute cigarette? A stop to the restroom is virtually impossible for the student who wants to be on time. It is a matter of which is more important.

For unknown reasons, most teachers do not find the above reasons for tardies acceptable, and the student usually receives a detention. Extremely severe cases may result in a "whack" administered by the appropriate dean. In any case, the bells ring on . . .

Get Outta My !* c# Space

Students who drive to school have at least one common problem. It is the parking lot. One has to pity the student who drives over his first speed bump. There are several methods. Sophomores, who are lucky enough to drive, bounce slowly over. Juniors try to jump over them at unbelievable speeds. The Seniors, being more educated and experienced, drive around them.

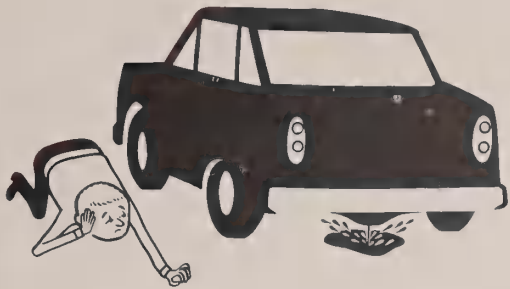

All students handle the glass, cans, and other various debris that cover the parking lot in the same manner. They drive as if they were on an obstacle course, swerving around and between the litter. Surprisingly, there have only been a few collisions, but despite the students' maneuvering, there have been approximately sixteen flat tires per semester.

This parking "privilege" is awarded to those willing to pay for a $5 dollar sticker which gives each student a numbered space. Some students obviously do not believe in such petty details. They just look for empty spaces. The student who paid for that space now has two choices. He can try to move the car, or he can park behind the car, blocking it in. He may also leave a descriptive, to-the-point note on the offender's car. Blocking the car seems to be the most popular choice, along with writing the note.

The solutions to these problems might seem obvious to some. Maybe we could all park in back of the cafeteria! However, the car may be towed away at the owner's expense.

And Beans Pick On . . .

One of the most active clubs on campus was the Beanpicker staff. The staff consisted of hard working students under the leadership of Miss Mary Reid, the advisor. The staff had meetings outside of class and held parties to celebrate the meeting of deadlines. Early in the year, members of the Beanpicker staff, took a trip to Walt Disney World along with members of the Oracle staff, for the Walt Disney Press Review. Pompano joined other schools from all over the state as guests of the Magic Kingdom. In the morning, publications editors met with Walt Disney World Press officials and took part in a journalism workshop. The afternoon was spent enjoying spectacles of the park. In March, three members of the staff, and advisor, traveled to New York City for the Columbia Press Convention. Three days were spent in learning journalism techniques such as: photography, editing, art work and other means of improving the Yearbook. The main objective of the Yearbook staff was to produce a book of long lasting memories to treasure forever.

Reading From left to right: Brian Kosko and Helene Solino enjoy working on the yearbook together. Business Manager Debbie Ginegaw works closely with Mrs. Harper to manage the Beanpickers' account. The staff members, from left to right are: H. Solino, J. Borreggine, D. Simmons, K. Trehy, K. Stradtner, D. Ginegaw—Business Manager, Miss Mary Reid, advisor, A. Nottingham, B. Reus—editor, K. Reus, K. MacFarlane, L. DeGrazia, M. Render—Ad Manager, N. Johnston, S. Cox, J. MacFarlane, D. Miller, C. Morris, L. Wiedenhofer, C. Gillies, M. Charbo, R. Perry. Mr. Gary Burke, the yearbook representative, gives advice on how to plan a yearbook. Members of the Beanpicker and Oracle staffs pause for a few moments from seeing the sights at Disney World, to smile at the photographer. Beanpickers find it necessary to work outside of class to meet deadlines.

Latest News to Students

Bringing the news to students monthly, with "up to the last minute" details, was difficult. The ORACLE however, tried to bring the best in sports, features, editorials, news, and past and future happenings to an active student body. The Oracle brought out the best in writing.

Varied Activities Keep Them Busy

Publishing the school literary magazine, Outcry, performing services in the community and the annual rock concert were all part of the fun. On January 31, after careful planning and lots of cooperation, the Annual Rock Concert went on stage for everyone's enjoyment. To do (their) part for ecology and their community, Outcry members collected newspapers and magazines for recycling.

Journalists Join In Comedy Fun

Outstanding Journalists from Beanpicker, Oracle, and Outcry made up the membership of Quill and Scroll. The breakfast installation ceremony at Sea Garde Hotel was enjoyed by old and new members and advisors. Throughout the year, Quill and Scroll members also assisted the individual publication staffs in their fund raising projects.

“Two Popcorns And Two Pepsi’s Please!”

With dozens of activities popping up, the Jr. Exchangettes were kept very busy all year. Not only did they run the concession stands at football and basketball games, but also they raised money in various ways. They donated money to the American Cancer Society by “sending a mouse to college”. As clowns and bugs, witches and dolls, they entered Holy Cross Hospital at Halloween and surprised the children with candy, games, and toys. During the holiday season they donated food certificates to several families and visited the Pinehurst Nursing Home, creating many more smiling faces for the end of the 1974 year. The money raised by working concession stands, selling mums at homecoming, and having bake sales, helped finance these projects and also an end-of-the-year gift to the school. To add to the uniqueness of the club, a very different initiation was held this year at Kester Park, Mac Donald’s, Burger King, and finally Pompano Fashion Square. The new members survived the food-throwing episode and the big singing contest, and they even endured all the games in the mall. The Exchangettes ended the very successful year with a beautiful banquet. Their club proved, without a doubt, that clubs can still be a very big and rewarding part of Pompano High.

Club Promotes Service, Pride

The Jr. Exchange Club, sponsored by the Exchange Club of Pompano Beach, worked in conjunction with its sister club in managing the concession stand during basketball and football seasons. During the Christmas holidays the Exchange Club worked with Community Relations of the Police Department in preparing food baskets for needy families. The club strived to promote pride in the school and service to the community.

Canned Goods With XMAS Trees

Keeping the student parking lot clean was a traditional Key Club chore, but the service club took part in many other activities just as meaningful. At Christmas time the club donated canned goods to the police department and helped distribute them to the needy. To show their holiday spirit, the Key Club helped the Kiwanis Club sell Christmas trees and presented all the female teachers with beautiful corsages. A new practice was adopted by the Key Club in the presentation of the "Athlete of the Month Award". Outstanding athletes in football and other sports, received this reward; it was well deserved by all of them.

Goal To Serve Others

"Service was their game, Interact was their name." They served the community in many different ways. Although the club was smaller than past years, it still had a lot of exciting and bright ideas. They had a successful dance to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy project. They raised $250.00 for this cause. They planned to have a few plane washes at the Pompano Airpark and they also participated in the Homecoming parade. They have done a superior job in serving the community and will continue this in the future. From left to right: M. Potter; K. Breckenridge; S. Ross; V. Lehman; E. Simonson; A. Chmielewski; D. During Homecoming week, the Interact float held up, despite the rain. Mark Tilleman, Bill Geroux, and Sponsor, Mr. Haskins, clown around after the meeting. Randy Reese concentrates heavily on taking the office of Sergeant at Arms.

Excellent Work Opportunities

To keep our school in good working spirits, The Diversified Co-operative Training Program is usually referred to as D.C.T., provided an opportunity for students, sixteen or older, to discover and develop, to the fullest their aptitudes and abilities. They utilized the business profession and industrial establishments of our community as "on-the-job" training agencies. D.C.T. was designed to train students for occupations of their choices and to develop the student academically, economically, and socially.

They are Professionals—

Under the direction of two new coordinators, Miss Coley and Miss Willis, Pompano DECA strived to achieve the many goals a cooperative program sets for itself. Members received credit for class, club, and job performance—all of which aimed for a polished, productive employee. On a local level, DECA participated in club week, homecoming, various fundraisers, and of course, gave birth to the DECA Bookstore. As one of the 17 Broward County high school chapters, they were involved with the Y-100 Hike-and-Bike-a-Thon for the American Cancer Society, and other annual county-wide events. Highlighting this year's calendar was the Distributive Education Clubs of America National Convention, hosted by Broward County in the spring. Quite a busy year, even for professionals.

Language Students Go International

Foreign language students, interested in the cultures and traditions of foreign countries united to form the International Club. The members visited restaurants of different nationalities to help them get acquainted with the customs of other countries. Selling handkerchieves at the Homecoming football game helped the club raise money.

Artists Plan Mural In Gym

Students, talented in art, found a way to express themselves through the Art Guild. They started preparations for All Sports Mural, to be painted on the wall of the gym. All the sports offered to PBHS have been included in the mural. The members held a flea market. Included was all the work done by the members.

New Activities Resolve Change

The biology club decided there needed to be a change. Instead the club was called Dive Club, because the members studied marine ecology, and took several trips to the Keys. While there, students spent time snorkeling and viewing sea animals and plant life. Later, a certified diver came to school to speak to the active members about the arts of diving.

Achievement Has Many Meanings

Character, Scholarship, Leadership and Service are only a few goals of the National Honor Society members. The drives for canned foods to be given in holiday baskets were a great success. The induction of new members at King's Plate was enjoyed by parents, students, and teachers.

Learning as they Help Others

Deciding on a career and preparation for the future took investigation. The Future Medical Leaders were learning about the fields of health care by visiting convalescent homes, hospitals and pediatric care centers to get an inside look. At Homecoming the F.M.L. float was enjoyed by all who saw the parade. Equipped with medical supplies, wheelchairs, stretcher, and ambulance, the F.M.L. float symbolized true school spirit.

Clicking Into Darkness

Cameras and photography provided experience, entertainment and possibilities for the future for the Photo Club students. We learned about various cameras and our own. During this phase of learning we used the various chemicals involved in developing and printing photography.

We then progressed to developing negatives and printing positives in the three darkrooms located on our campus. After we completed the developing phase, we proceeded to learn about portrait techniques, which included photographing models and utilizing studio lighting.

Studio lighting was an involved procedure in which we used background, foreground, Bounce-lighting and background studio settings. Students learned to recognize the better photogenetic poses of the models.

After this we progressed to commercial photography; all students were required to choose commercial product. They had to submit a photo of this product using props to enhance its sale. This introduced the students to the world of photography.

Field trips, such as Viscaya and others, utilized on-location photo training. The philosophy of this course was "not every one can take pictures with meaning to the masses, but to individuals".

High Steppers

March On

Pompano saw the return of the Drill Team for the first time since the late 1960's. The team showed a slightly different style of marching than ever before. It was more of a dance routine than a precision march. The activities of the Drill Team included marching at pre-game shows and at half-time. Fund raising activities included selling refreshments at night school and selling stationary. The team gained experience through practicing after school and also by making their own uniforms.

Farmers Feed Future

With advisors, Mr. Kirbert and Miss Manalo, The Future Farmers Of America have successfully played an important part in accomplishing the goals for the students in the field of agriculture. The members in this club have learned how to conduct and take part in meetings, in judging livestock, vegetables, ornamental plants and have taken part in community leadership. They have learned the new techniques in modern farm life and have established goals for their future.

Grab A Role, But Don't Drink The Water

Hundreds of students went to see two excellent plays: Don't Drink the Water and Room 222, bringing money to Thespian troupe 1888's treasury. With the guidance of Mrs. Bette Langteau, the yearly Thespian banquet came through as a streaming success.

Who's Who

Fifty-three seniors from Pompano were nationally recognized for achievements in either academics, athletics, extra-curricular activities or community service by Who's Who Among American High School Students. This award is the leading published account of student achievement and is distributed to colleges, large corporations, major libraries, and to individuals who are interested in tomorrow's leaders.

Spirit of Our School

Student Senate has shown great concern for making a closer relationship between the student body and faculty. This club went to the meeting, "Focusing On Individuals," held at Pompano Fashion Square. Student Senate has sent flowers to the expecting teachers, held "Back To School Night" for teachers and parents, and also attended conferences about "Youth In Our Society".

Still Superior And Rising

For the twenty-third consecutive year our outstanding band received another superior rating. With hard work and long hours of practicing, our "Goldon Tornado Band" showed everyone what teamwork was all about. From car washes to candy sales, true dedication was evident all the way. Although their work seemed never-ending, it was well worth it in the long run, as the band displayed showy, new blue and gold uniforms to accompany their talent that makes Pompano Beach Senior High one of the proudest schools in the country.

Council Unifies Clubs

The Inter-Club Council consisted of all the club presidents. Commonly known as I.C.C., it kept clubs posted on what was happening around school, as well as within the other clubs. As I.C.C. kept Homecoming running smoothly; they were instrumental in directing the annual tricycle race during club week.

Voices Hit High Notes

Under the new direction of John Spain, the Choral Department entertained audiences with special assemblies given to various civic groups in the community. Besides the traditional Girls and Mixed Chorus, a new group of twenty voices, named the "Tradewinds," has been formed. These talented students were chosen for their musical ability.

Sports

Varsity Grooves With Spirit

The cheerleaders performed to high potential with the arrival of their new sponsor, Miss Beardmore. After many long hours of practice they once again led the student body in spirit. Throughout the year with great perfection, they added the "extra" to our pep rallies and sports events. The year's squad included: Terri Bell—Captain, Karla Satter—Co-captain, Eileen McFadden, Pam Springer, Sue Spooner, Lisa Cimino, Jodie Gall, Bev Perkins, Wanda Houston, Bernice Smith—Mascot, and Co-mascot, Stephanie Vanover.

J. V. Cheerleaders Show Excellence

With the talent of this squad the sophomore class had something to boast about. After the work each girl put in and with the watchful eye of their new sponsor, Miss Gail Cooley, Wednesday nights were full of cheers and spirit from these soon-to-be Varsity cheerleaders. The squad included Melinda Musselman—captain, Lori Doyle—co-captain, Melissa Moore, Debbie Montouri, Michele Corace, Cindy Sherman, Delphine Poitier, and Sharon Oatts.

Freshman Cheerleaders Have It

The Freshman cheerleaders came a long way and showed they had what it took to become full-fledged Tornadoes. With the help of their sponsor, Ms. Wilkes, they blossomed from the inexperienced to sure and spirited freshmen. These girls exhibited that they were ready to lead in future years. They were: Cathy McFadden—captain, Betty Bell—co-captain, Beth Anderson, Lynn Radcliff, Janis Gall, Linda Jones, Linda Pendergrass, and Carla Smith.

Golden Tornadoes

Pure Destruction

The Golden Tornadoes went into the season with great expectations and came out with greater ones. Coach Jim Vanover led the mighty team through a fantastic season, with the help of his assistants. The offensive unit was explosive with it's main running attack, flanked by many talented running backs accompanied by exceptional offensive line that consistently opened holes for them. The offense served up many points and lots of excitement for the crowd, but there cannot be enough said for the "Big D". Outstanding is the word for this group of headhunters.

Throughout the season they mangled opposing teams; shutting down the running attack was the thing for the strong defense, quickness and agility added to the completeness of the units talents. Much can be said for the secondary too, who constantly put down the opposing air attack. The defensive unit also served up their quota of points through the season adding to the compiled scores. Both offense and defense had their standouts all year, but when it comes down to the bare necessities, the effort of the team as a whole was the main purpose for the victorious season put together by the Golden Tornadoes.

J.V. have tough season

Despite the competent coaching of Bob Wells and Jeff Weintold, Pompano's Junior Varsity team struggled to a 3-5 season.

Injuries hurt the second year team greatly, and this was a key factor in the teams performance last fall. However, many of the young men on the team showed the determination and potential to make the varsity squad of 1975-76 the best yet.

Cross Country Crosses 'em up

With the coaching of Gary Boyer and many hours of determined running, the cross country team brought in an impressive record of 7-4. Behind the running of senior, Dean Smith, and junior, Tracy Sands, the team was off to a fantastic start. The girls team also had a good year with the running and efforts of all the gals, thus proving to be a conference threat next year. With high hopes going into county and state meets, the best of the runners were yet to come.

Coach Boyer goes over a few things before meet. Tracy Sands exceptional junior runner with high hopes for next year. Runners get set on the starting line. Dean Smith adds laughter to pre-meet warm-ups.

Noel Summer limbers up before meet. Runners are off and running. Linda Henning and Dee Miller chat before their meet. Dean Smith crosses the finish for a good showing. Wayne Adkins way ahead. Crystal Manner, dedicated runner for the girls. Larry Teague shows a concentration and determination.

Enthusiasm Is Present

Much enthusiasm and spirit was shown by the Varsity Cheerleaders throughout the season. Their presence added much more excitement and gave the wrestlers an extra boost. The girls are: Terri Gjesdahl—capt., Kathy Muller—co-capt., Sue Ross, Cathy Mills, Missy Antrum, Joy Robinson, Angela Lee, and Kim Grinnis.

Exuberance Shown

Dedication and loyalty gave this first year group much to hope for in the future. Supporting a fine J.V. team completed an all-around year for the girls. They were as follows: Joyce Collier, Carolyn Meyer, Melinda Posey, Karen Lloyd, Kim Obermayr,

Winning Season Pinned Again

Another winning season was added to the mat again. Pompano's fine wrestlers kept the team together through many performances. Coaches Don Randolph and Don Sanders led the team to a 9-5 season and conference showing. As the team proceeded into the District Tournaments it was shown that Tornadoes' talent would be seen at the state finals.

Tradition In Tact

From the first game our Tornadoes showed everyone what to expect in the coming season. Outside shooting and domination under the boards was an over-all team effort by the varsity. Under Head Coach, Phil Linville, and his assistants, Dave Toney and Lester Cook, many hard hours were put together to perfect the team in all ways possible. Two returning starters were the axis of the team, flanked by two returning reserves that gave the team added strength. Much credit is also given to the agility and skills shown by the players up from last year's undefeated J.V. team. Such talent once again gave fans the excitement and tradition of fine basketball at Pompano Beach High School.

Jayvee's Do It Again

New Coach Dave Toney had to fill some big shoes this year and they fit perfectly. The experience brought to the team by Coach Toney, and the ability of the players, were what gave the Jayvees another championship. The height, skills, and quickness in this squad overwhelmed the many teams they played. Such aggressiveness showed these players will be ready to fill some other big shoes in the next year.

Girls Run

Towards Victory

The second year of girl's track proved to be bigger and better. Winning the 2nd Annual Pompano Beach Golden Tornadoes Invitational was a big highlight of the year's success. Equipped with outstanding ability and undying enthusiasm, the girl's track team was a winner and will probably become a big tradition at Pompano.

Water Minded

Again the swimmers had another fine year, adding to the sports spectacle at Pompano. Much time and effort was put in the rhythm of the swimmers and the timing of the divers. An overall effort by the boys' and girls' teams plus the coaching of Ms. Busby made the year successful.

Guys and Gals On The Clay

The tennis teams have added their mark to great sports at Pompano for 1974-75. The individual efforts of each guy and girl showed the determination to bring a winner. Each team had the advantage of toughened veterans to give added strength. With the addition of new tennis courts to the school, the teams could practice freely to perfect the fundamentals. Matches were tough and the competition for the teams was great.

Pastime Proves Potent

In the minds of all, this had to be the year for another winner for Pompano, even in baseball. This season the ballplayers molded a whole new outlook. They had desire and dedication to give Coach Hatfield "one more for the gipper." At the season's start the Tornados showed that their outlook paid off. With batting being the strong point, the team's defense was one of the tops around.

Academics

Mr. Henry Christwell
Miss Roberta Durbin
Mr. James Jones

Mr. Duke Maltby
Mr. William Sabin

Administration is ready to help.

Students know when they have a problem, the administration is there to listen and help them. Whether the problem is academic or personal, the administration can make helpful suggestions to assist each student in solving his or her problem.

Active support of each student is expressed by the interest the administration shows for our clubs and athletic teams. The students of our school feel very fortunate to have such an administration.

Mr. Jones looks over the gym equipment during the pre-school rush. Principal Dr. Owen T. Myers welcomes students back from summer vacation at our first pep rally. Dean Roberta Durbin gives a smile to students coming into her office.

Mrs. Kathleen Bledsoe
Mr. Richard Berquist
Mr. Terry Heynes

Guidance isn't just academic.

Mrs. Barbara Rhone
Mrs. Bonnie Spradling
Mrs. Marge Stafford
Mr. Robert Wells

When someone thinks of a guidance counselor, he might think all a counselor does is give recommendations for college and job opportunities. At Pompano High School they do much more.

Mr. Berquist is the new sponsor of Key Club and is a major supporter of our athletic teams each season.

Mr. Wells coaches J.V. football and assists the varsity squad.

Academic counseling is important, but we are happy to say development of our minds and bodies in other ways is always important to our counselors.

Mrs. Stafford collects information about a student. Mr. Wells prepares a schedule change. Mrs. Bledsoe advises Brian Cox on scholarship programs for sophomores.

Mrs. Kay Dorel
Miss Dottie Harper
Mrs. Pat McCaughey

Who Really Keeps School Running?

Office work kept secretaries busy, as they had never-ending paperwork. For answering phones, typing attendance sheets, making counselor appointments, and many other necessary jobs, they were greatly appreciated.

For Mrs. Stanley, there is never a dull moment. Bookkeeping keeps Mrs. Harper busy.

Mrs. Rayda Mjedle

Mrs. Lois Pittman

Mrs. Betty Stanley

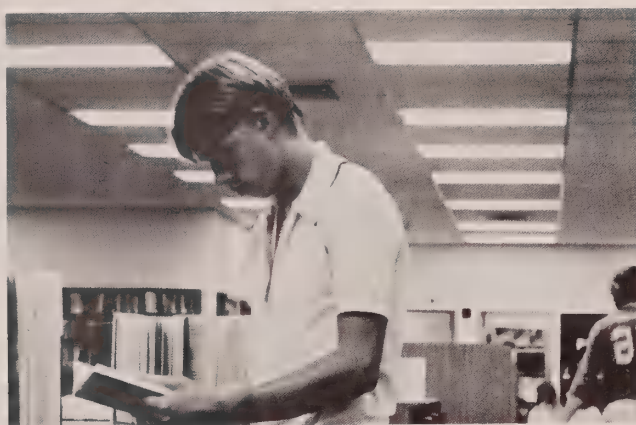

Mrs. Ann Denardo

Miss Carolyn Payne

Mrs. Doris Sheck

Bookworms Incorporated

As students were interested in all types of reading, the library was in constant use. The librarians were kept busy as classes came in to work on different projects and reports. Through research in the library, students increased their knowledge, or just sat down with a good book.

Dee Miller takes a break from studying. Mrs. Payne is always willing to lend a helping hand. Mike Krotz finds various books interesting.

Mr. Carlton Alderman

Mr. Alderman retires to the teachers' lounge for lunch and a cigar. Miss Gottshall displays a can of Florida sunshine. Mrs. Wesley seriously considers grades. Mr. Alderman removes a new student from class. Miss Reid waits patiently for a reply.

Mr. Brian Rowland

Miss Normandine Wesley

Like Reading About Little Green Men?

Additions in the English Department's curriculum brought about new interests. The new "Science Fiction, Mass Media" course, taught by Miss Reid, was advised for students interested in exciting and current literature, movies, and student participation. Among some of the titles were: 1984, Out of a Silent Planet, Alas, Babylon, 2001, and many others.

A fascinating subject taught by Miss Buzby, Miss Gotshall, and Mrs. Watkins, was "Mass Media". It allowed the students to discover just how much they were affected by the media around them, such as radio, television, newspapers, etc.

Contests were varied. In October every student wrote an essay for American Education Week. Curt Aldstadt won the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Award in writing. Talented seniors tested their skills for writing in such events as the Civitan Essay Contest, where prizes were awarded.

Mr. Lauerne Blackard
Mrs. Evelyn Ford
Mrs. Martha Jansen
Miss Theresa Lambert

Be An Einstein

A test such as the annual high school examination was a good test for students wishing to find out where they stood in mathematics. A new course, "Career Math," was taught by Mrs. Ford, Mr. Haywood, and Mrs. Merriks. It was designed for students who wanted to apply their mathematical skills to vocational interests.

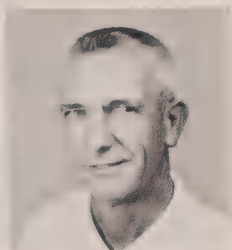

Still a popular course was business math. It equipped today's students for today's jobs. It provided a solid foundation in mathematics that might be used in everyday life.

As math courses progressed, so did the students' minds.

Mrs. Jansen is always eager to help. Linda Lardino hurries into class. Concentration is the key.

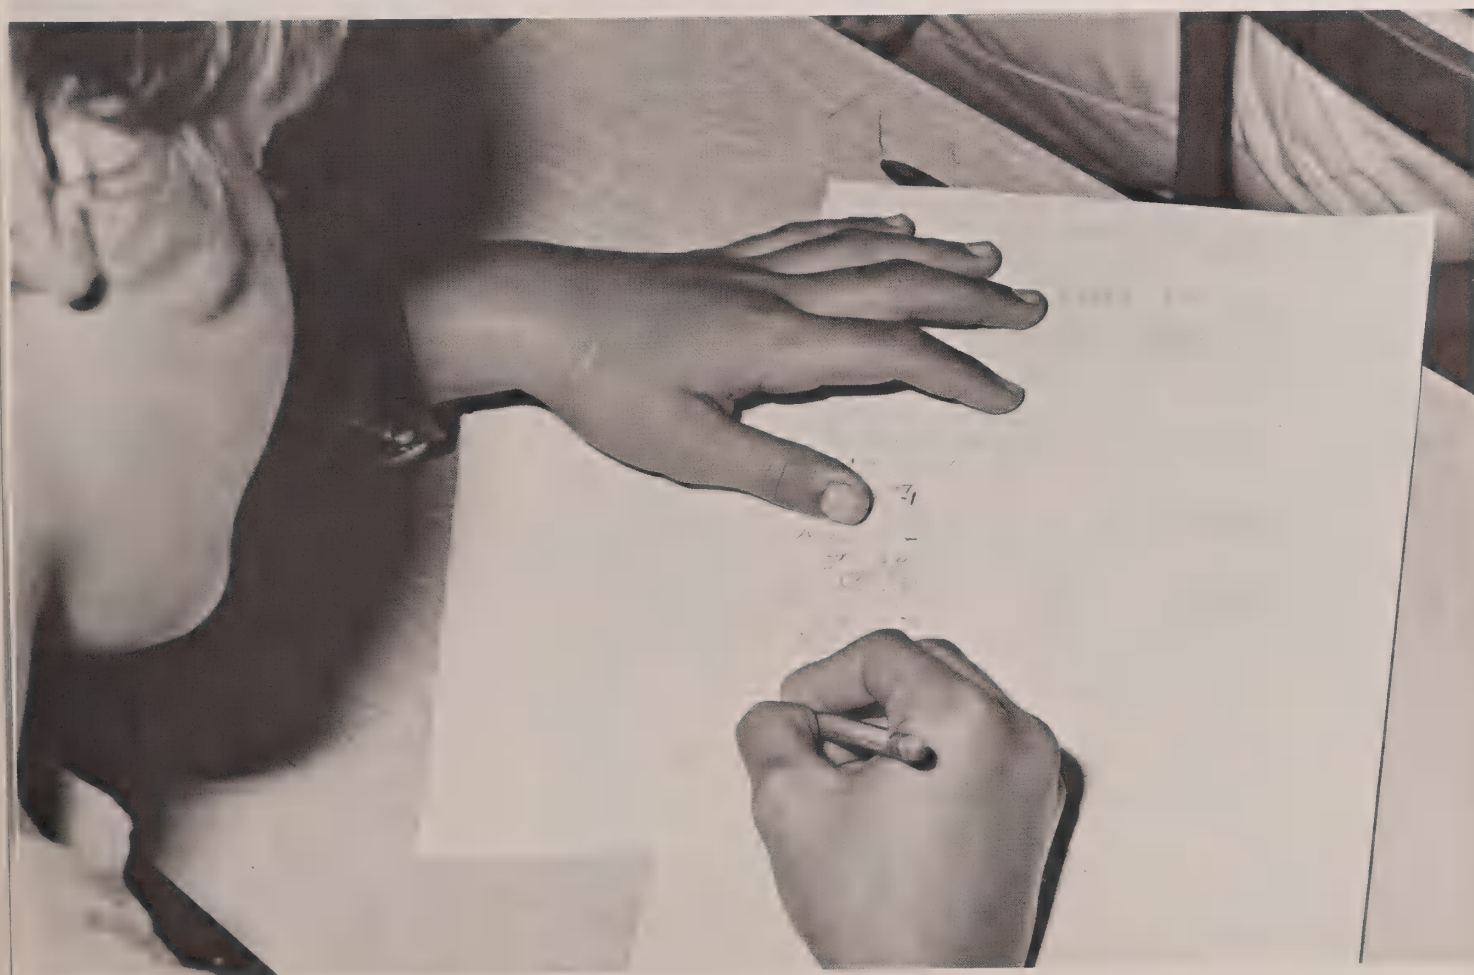

Mr. Bill Miller

Mrs. Betty Sweany

Mrs. Deloris Wilks

Mrs. Evelyn Blow

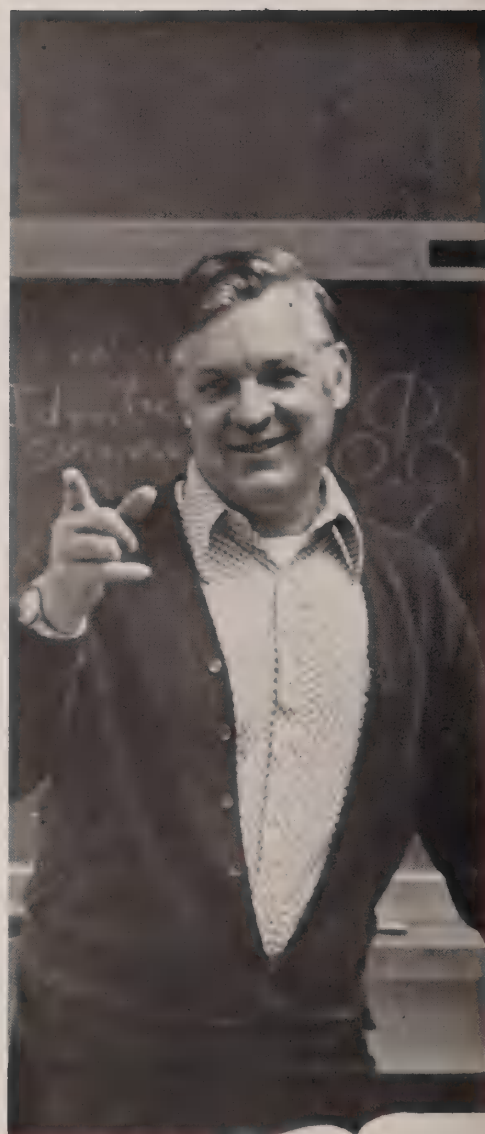

Mr. Gary Boyer

Mr. Ed Conroy

Mr. Jim Manchester

For The Mad Scientists

"Nature vs. Technology", a common problem today, drew much interest from students, as instructors Carl Martin and James Planutis attempted to present science and social issues concerning man's effect on the environment.

Some students found the "Independent study in science" of great interest, as it involved field trips and speakers from outside the school. It gave the students a chance to study their main interests in the field of science.

Science still remained one of the most popular subjects in school, as students will always be concerned with the world around them.

Students find Mr. Miskin's chemistry class amusing. With help from Mrs. Blow, Don Lloyd enjoys Human Physiology. With goggles and apron Howard Kidder finds a solution. Mr. Martin points out an important fact. Mr. Towery awaits an answer. Mrs. Blow searches for the right words. Mr. Vanover works rapidly to finish grading papers.

Mr. Donnell Sanders
Mr. Paul Tavitian
Mr. Robert Wilkner

Let's Get Married

Social studies included such categories as philosophy, minority groups and sociology. This included the new unit in death, which attempted to have students come to grips with the idea of death—our own and others. Guest speakers on marriage, birth control, and death added more interest to the classes. Still a popular course, psychology hoped to let students learn more about themselves and the people around them.

Students find psychology as interesting as it looks. Mr. Moody proves American History can be interesting. Mr. Planutis hands back test papers. Mr. Tavitian gets his point across. This student displays the typical body language of a female.

Mrs. Jeanne Anderson
Mrs. Ellen Christopher
Mrs. Nell Portier
Mrs. Carmel Provencial

Boys in the Kitchen?

The revolutionary "bachelor survival" course let the boys try their luck at such housekeeping duties as cooking and sewing. The boys were taught these skills by Mrs. Christopher.

Home economics was a lot more than just cooking and sewing. Included in the department were "decorator aide", a new exploratory course into the area of home furnishing skills and the study of art as related to interior design. "Child development allowed students to work directly with children and spend some time teaching in nursery schools and kindergartens.

Bob Gregory just can't seem to get those wrinkles out. Mrs. Poitier teaches the boys to sew. Doug Calloway enjoys the food he helped prepare.

Women's Lib In Print Shop

The girls became involved in Industrial Arts, working with wood, metal, and ink. They learned about the field, and discovered its many career opportunities.

Industrial Arts covered a very broad area. It offered such courses as woods, metals, general drafting and architectural drafting, in which students learned by constructing models. Industrial material and processes, mechanical drafting, graphic arts, electronics and photography were also included in the department.

The photography club was also initiated. It gave its members a chance to share ideas and technical "know how."

This student displays the typical body language of a female. Mr. Walters answers a student's question. Robert Weber demonstrates the printing press. Ron Dhaveloose demonstrates the lathe. Mr. Mertz observes the students' conduct.

You May Be Breaking Fingernails

But you have learned a valuable skill if you have taken typing, shorthand, or another business education course. Business education also offered courses in Business English, business machines, and bookkeeping.

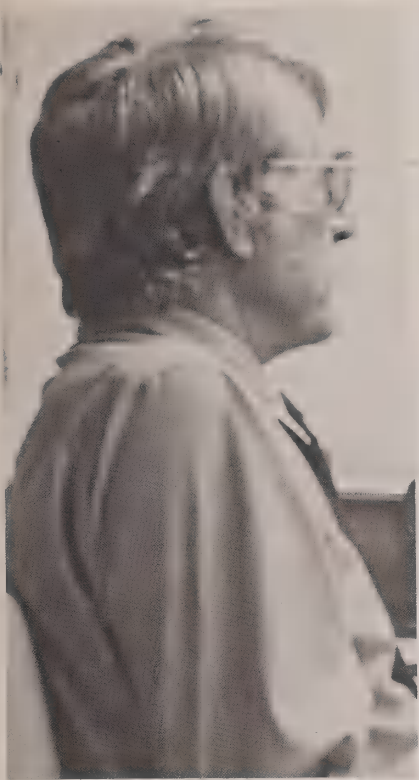

Reading in order from left to right: Mrs. Hornquist gives Mark Tillman a helping hand. Mr. Zabelin demonstrates business math. Mrs. Atkinson observes her students' typing techniques.

Tacos Anyone?

If you like them you would probably find them at one of the Spanish classes' food-tasting seminars.

The seminars were just one of the things the foreign language department did to teach the students about the culture of different countries. It made learning such languages as Spanish, French, German and Latin not only more interesting, but fun.

Reading in order from left to right: Mr. Green discusses Spanish. The Pinata adds interest to Spanish classes. A student finds his text book very interesting. This student is busy studying Latin.

Mrs. Natividad Manalo
Mr. John Kirbert

Sources Of Tomorrow

Agriculture students have participated in and have learned the procedures of raising crops and ornamental plants, and have learned the proper steps in the care of handling animals. Many projects were undertaken during the year, including raising pigs, cows, chickens, and horses. Students also have competed in judging livestock, vegetables, and poultry.

Miss Manalo lectures on the important factors of landscaping. Kevin Stradtner and Lora Goza learn the procedures in operating a tractor. Students take a break from attending their crops. Mr. Kirbert prepares the roast pig for the agriculture barbecue.

Mr. Phil Linville
Mr. Dave Toney

Attitude Comes First

Driver's Ed taught students the skills in driving and stressed one of the most important factors, which was attitude. The attitude of the student depended greatly on how successful that student would become in driving. Students have learned how to obey the laws of the road including how to operate and handle a vehicle. They learned how to conduct themselves on these complex highways and have discovered the importance of safety.

Co-Ed P.E. In Locker Rooms?

Physical education has gone through many changes in all the years it has been part of the curriculum at Pompano Beach High School. Along with the basic P.E. course in which students enjoyed volleyball, basketball, softball and football; Coed P.E. has been offered. In this class of mostly juniors and seniors, the students played football, tennis, volleyball—and once a week, bowling. A gymnastics class was also offered and was enjoyed a great deal by the girls.

Liz Williams demonstrates a split. Debbie Sherman manages a smile while doing her sit ups. Lynn Kruger mounts the unevens. Coach Moyer drops back for a pass. Diane Reininga and Diana Drew spot Raemali Malfe on the balance beam. Believe it or not Donna Giardina is doing her warm ups!

Mr. Tucker Morris
Miss Betty Myrick
Mr. John Moyer

Music Is Unlimited

Music classes were no longer limited. Chorus, band, and orchestra were just the beginning. Each section of the music department offered many different subjects from which to choose. Mr. Spain, the new chorus director, added popular music to their selection of songs. Mr. Switzer and the band upheld their twenty-third superior rating at contest. Orchestra still remained a popular course. Members entertained at parties, the Senior Tea, and various other events.

Freshman Glenn Listort concentrates on sheet music. John Cuillo beats out the rhythm at a pep rally. Mr. Switzer soars to twenty-third superior rating.

Art All Around School

Art was not in G Building Alone! The students used their talents to decorate halls, administrative offices, and the cafeteria. The art department again brought home awards from local art shows and contests. The blend of sculpture, drawing, painting, and crafts gave students a chance to express themselves in various ways.

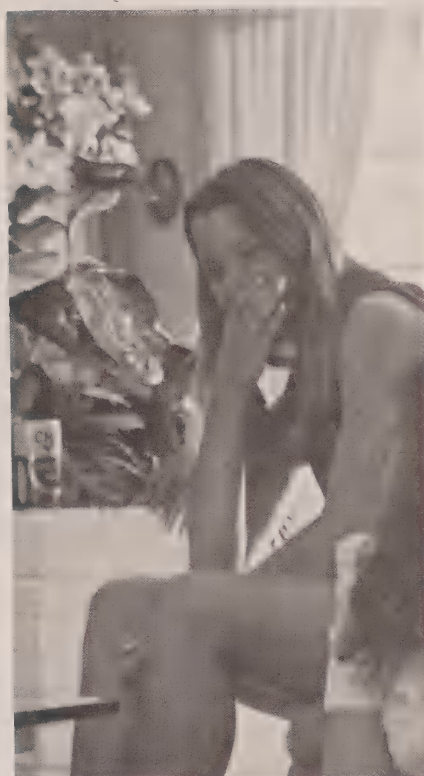

Mrs. Groszer checks her students work. Art students display their talent on classroom walls.

Class of 1975

The Senior class is waiting ... waiting for the end. We have endured twelve long years of education, 2100 days of learning, laughing, worrying, crying, and waiting together. Now, as we prepare to graduate, we realize that the end is really the beginning—the beginning of a whole new life. We came to PBHS as bewildered, frustrated, and very immature freshmen. We went to school from midday to dusk, which proved to be somewhat confusing, but we endured. Then as sophomores, we started to mature, little by little, and by the time we were juniors, we thought we really "had it together". As seniors, we are looking back at the past four years, yet looking ahead toward the future.

Looking back, we see football and basketball games. Homecoming—with its bonfire ... assemblies ... floats ... parade ... queen ... game ... dance, car-washes, magazine sales, dances, and many other things provided our class with funds for our Senior Tea, Senior Prom, and Graduation. We can remember the friendships—brief, sweet, long, hard—but always unforgettable.

Looking ahead, many of us may feel uncertain. Our adult life awaits, leaving us with a number of decisions to make. We are the leaders of tomorrow. Hopefully, our high school education has prepared us for some of the decisions. In the years to come we may never see each other, but the memories of our years at PBHS will linger on.

The Senior Class officers are: Emory Cook, president; Charlene Edwards, vice-president; Betty Hoss, secretary; and Sue Cox, treasurer.

CLASS OF 1976

The graduating class of "76" showed its school spirit by participating in its car washes, magazine drives and other money raising projects. Juniors began apprenticeships for a place among the leaders of Pompano Beach Senior High School. To show their appreciation they sponsored the Homecoming Dance. The Juniors discovered their goals while preparing for the anniversary of our nation's independence, which will come about their graduation year.

CLASS OF 1977

The sophomores are the middle in state of learning, but some are already leaders. Their class officers: Brian Cox—President, Naomi Screen—Vice President, Joy Robinson—Secretary, and Melinda Musselman—Treasurer. Others brighten the school activities and some people, like Russ Chick, brighten an otherwise dull day. Karen Trehy's goal is good grades, and studying hard is the key. A sophomore enjoys a varsity football game and adds to the fun.

CLASS OF 1978

It was hard to come to a new school and become accustomed to the different surroundings of the campus and the new faces of the student body. The freshmen year was the start of a new concept in learning and when things got off to a bad start, they always seemed to turn out better in the end. It was a long, hard road, but the best days of our lives are now, while attending high school.

Past Graduates That Found Themselves In The United States Air Force

Join the Air Force and you will find yourself doing a great job at an exciting duty station. That's because the Air Force gives you the chance to learn a skill, and the chance for foreign travel. Just two of the reasons thousands of young men and women enlist each year.

Whatever your goals are, Air Force training and travel can take you a long way toward getting your future off the ground.

It's Your Move!

It may be the most important move of your life!
Your whole future may rest on this one decision...
It's not just a job...
It's your choice of careers!

Your future is assured if you make your move to Winn-Dixie, a company with opportunity, a large company with large company benefits, including paid vacations, sick pay, insurance, hospitalization, profit sharing plan, stock purchase plan, retirement, etc.

We at Winn-Dixie are looking for industrious young men with high school and college educations for management training. We'll start you at the bottom and it's up to you how fast you move up and how far you go...

Winn-Dixie is a growing company, one of the largest food chains in the country. The opportunity is here. All you need do is take advantage of it.

Someone Special

Diane Reininga

There is someone special
that we love,
She reminds us of a soaring white dove.
She soars so high she can't hear a sound.
She soars so freely in her white, silky gown.
We could trust her, for she would not lie—
Her soul as clean as a clear blue sky.
She touched as soft
as a touch could be;
She touched so deep
as the depths of the sea.
Her steps she left turned to gold;
they tarnished away
as they grew old.
There was someone special
that we love,
But now she is gone
to the heavens above.

Diane Reininga, PBHS sophomore, April 26, 1959-January 29, 1975. Died at Jackson Memorial Hospital of a rare skin disease. She was very active on campus, participating in many activities, including majorette in the marching band, and a member of Junior Exchangettes.

A Memorial

To Mario

Its been a while now
 since you went away.
 But many still think about you day after day.
 We think about the things you used to say,
 and how we each loved you
 in our own way.
 It's really hard to believe
 you're gone,
 and that there are nothing but memories left to carry on.
 It's just not the same with out
 you,
 But there isn't anything anyone can do.
 Except pray that you're happy
 there and hope you know how much we care.
 That you're no longer here to share
 the things in life; God, it seems so unfair.

In this poem, what we're trying to show
 Is that we still think about you, Mario.

We will look back at our days at Pompano Beach High School and think about the good times we had. We will recognize how much we have matured during the four years spent at high school. From the "picked-on" freshmen to the "respectable" seniors, we do see a difference, and will wish we could relive those times once again.

I think we have learned
All the things we will need;
Not a question unanswered,
For tomorrow we lead.

Our fathers before us
Seemed not to succeed;
Their mistakes our examples,
When tomorrow we lead.

Decisions will be many;
Our problems may exceed
Those of previous era.
Regardless, tomorrow we lead.

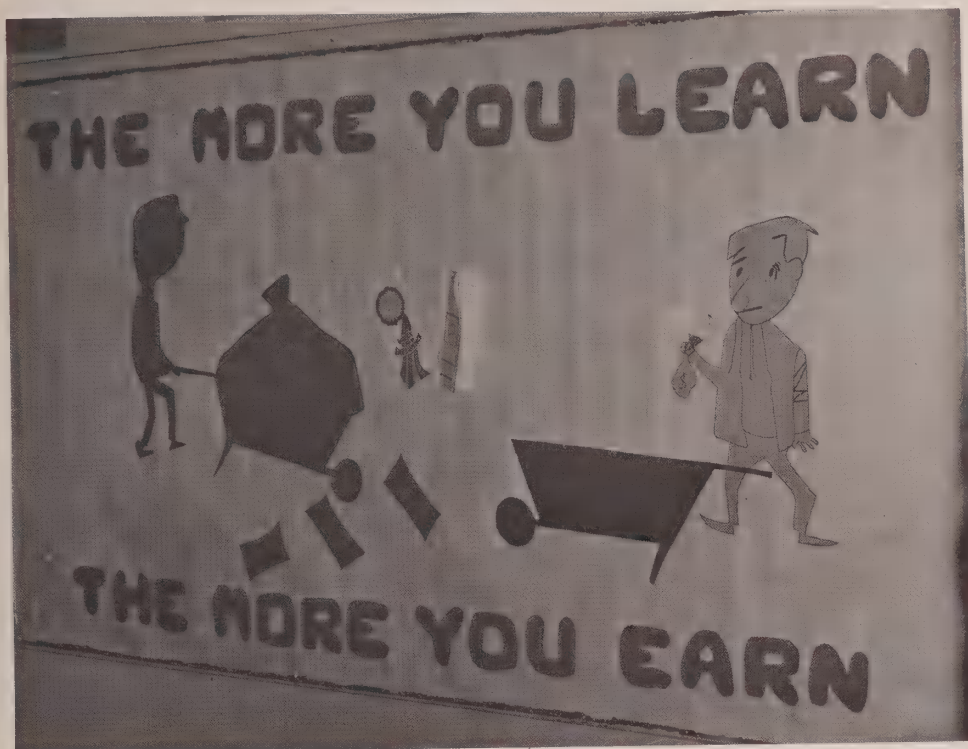

Our failures won't go unnoticed
Our children will plead,
For guidance, love and assurance
For tomorrow they will lead.

Yesterday our elders were “tugging” us around by the hand, for we knew nothing. What we saw, we did. But today, as our minds grow broader, we do not do what we see; instead, we see what we do, just as everyone else does. We must continue to learn, for tomorrow we shall lead. The future is ours as long as we continue to learn.

Yesterday We Followed . . .
 Today We Learn . . .
 Tomorrow We Lead . . .
